Peace Country Agriculture

Nine million acres of fertile fields in a valley fed by the waters of the spring thaw from the Rocky Mountains

Welcome to Canada's Peace Country!

The most northern agricultural region in the America's, the Peace Country farmer works in partnership with incubating winters and nourishing summers to select crops and livestock feeds that are hardy, robust, and globally superior for their nutritional content and germination rates.

Grass seed (known as fescue) grown in the Peace Country is world renowned for its highest quality and germination ratios.

Companies in Europe, the United States and Asia buy Peace Country seeds in bulk, package it, and then sell it back to you for your lawns and golf courses!

The Peace Country is internationally recognized for producing the highest quality of pure white honey. Peace Country honey producers have captured markets in Asia and Europe, and the loyalty of international five-star chefs!

Specialty honey such as organic clover, dandelion, and fireweed, are the most sought after on the international markets.
